SUNRISE

NEW BEDDING PETUNIA

"All the world has been waiting for Sunrise," is an exaggeration, but it is no exaggeration to say that Sunrise is the best pink bedding Petunia.

The slightly frilled flowers are brilliant pink with a scarlet flush radiating from a small yellow throat, a glowing color that is set off by the heavy dark green foliage. The habit of the plant is compact and branching and at no time does Sunrise become leggy. This makes it excellent as a pot plant.

Appreciation

It is with thanks to our friends for your continued support that we present this 1941 edition of our general catalogue.

As we go to press, world conditions are increasingly confused and in some items, which ordinarily come from Europe, chances of obtaining new crop seeds are doubtful. Occasional shipments get through by Air Mail but no dependence can be placed upon getting a supply.

For this reason some of the choicer items of seeds, particularly those used for pot plants may be in short supply or not available, however, in most instances American grown items can be used to take their place. American growers and hybridizers are already working hard to fill the gaps and our job will be to present them to you as soon as available.

Our aim is to "Serve you Better Always" and we will try to do our share.

SOMERSET ROSE NURSERY, INC.

AUGUST BOSENBERG, President

LOUIS C. SCHUBERT, V. Pres. & Treas.

Bloomfield Gold Medal, awarded The New Dawn by the American Rose Society as the best hardy everblooming Climbing Rose.

An extensive list of Greenhouse and Hardy Chrysanthemums is included in our special Mum list. Write for your copy.

Growers are coming to realize more and more that specialists can deliver rooted cuttings more economically than is possible in the average establishment. Delivered when you want them, as near as humanly possible and especially if you order early, in prime condition, the battle for a profitable crop is half won when you start.

Carnations, Hydrangeas and bedding plants are all items where the specialist can produce your young stock better.

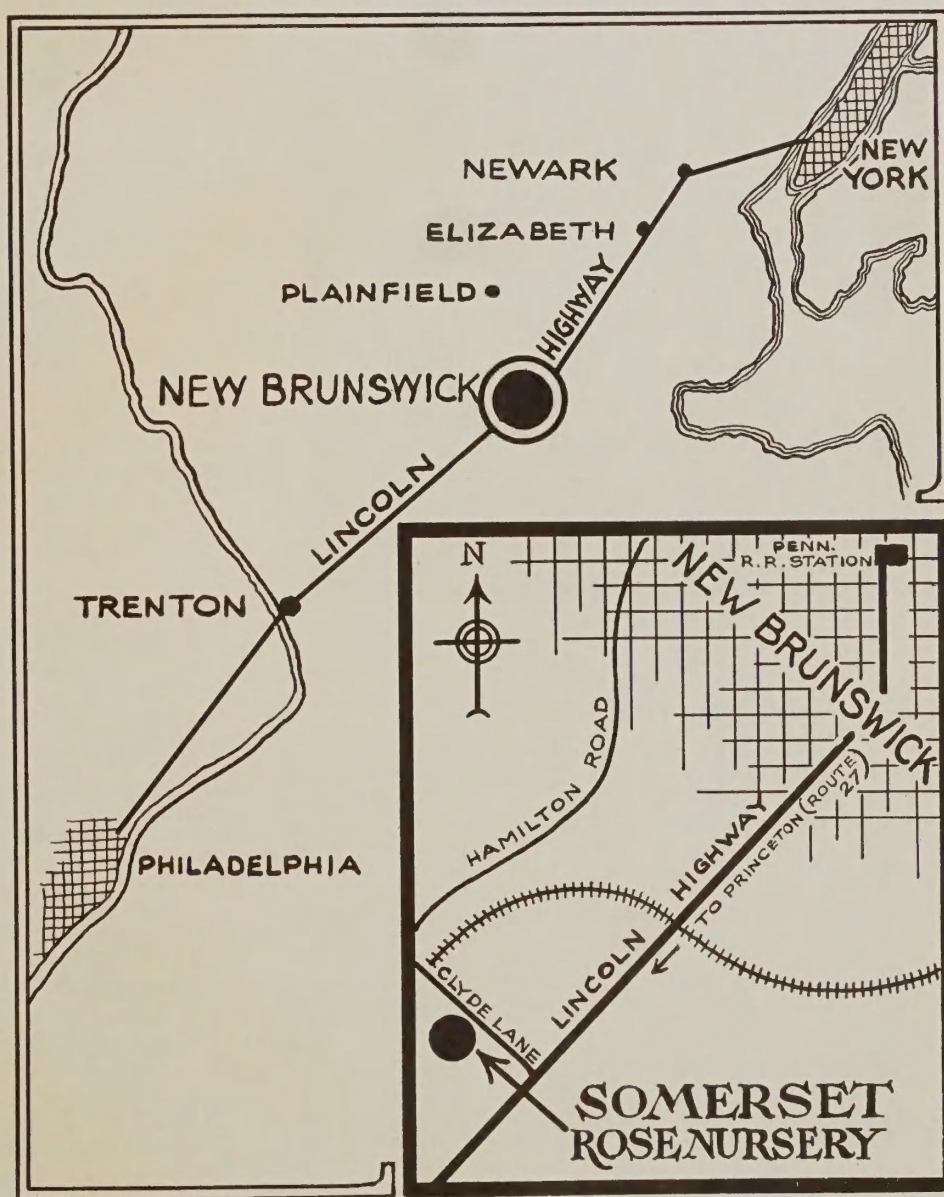

LET US QUOTE YOU.

COME TO SEE US

You will always be welcome and on our fifty acres of plantings you will surely find something of interest.

From early Spring to late Fall something is always in bloom. Particularly striking are the large blocks of Delphiniums, Phlox and Salvia and during August and September the trial grounds are a mass of color.

Petunia All Double Victorious

All Double Petunias in variety are offered on Page 17. With the shortage of Dutch bulbs this season this class becomes of even more importance than in past years. Well grown pot plants may be reasonably grown in a Carnation temperature and past experience has shown they sell readily at prices that compare favorably with items that cost much more to produce. Plan to have enough, even 3" and 4" stock works nice into pans and baskets.

This entirely new type Petunia has been developed to fill the need for a bright colored ruffled, large flowered, compact class especially suited for pot culture. The plant has the same habit as the Martha Washington type but the individual flowers are about 4 inches in diameter with open throats more of the Dwarf Giants of California type in form and size.

The mixture contains a remarkable blend of striking colors ranging from white to pink through rose and red and includes many gay combinations of pink or red blotched with white.

ASTER BLUE CLOUD

Starting to bloom in mid-October and reaching its best by November 1st, this variety provides color in the garden when even the hardiest Chrysanthemums have succumbed to the touch of Jack Frost.

The plants form 3 ft. high rounded upright clumps of fluffy light green foliage almost entirely covered with single yellow centered soft lavender blue flowers that are fine to cut and to use in harmony with late flowering mums.

Iron hardy, not troubled by insects or diseases, and with remarkable resistance of the flowers to freezing temperatures, Aster Blue Cloud will help extend the flowering season into late fall.

Three, $0.85; $3.00 per Dozen; $20.00 per 100

ASTER ROSE CLOUD—ILLUSTRATED FRONT COVER

The growth of this variety is more spreading than Blue Cloud, otherwise it is similar in habit. The flowers are somewhat larger and of an attractive shade of rose. The graceful sprays are delightful to cut and lend themselves nicely to arrangements.

SEED GERMINATION

Most florists and nurserymen are successful with the sowings of their seeds. Almost all have worked out a method that suits their particular purpose. Occasionally, however, something happens that spoils all or part of a sowing thus delaying the crop. Delays mean a possible cut in profits, therefore we think the few points mentioned below may be of interest.

First in importance is the sowing medium. The old time mixture of 1 part loam, 1 part leaf mold, 1 part sharp sand, seems to be ideal for the largest number of items. For very fine seeds or varieties that damp off easily the sand content may be raised to provide more drainage.

Year old cinders, finely screened and washed, also make an ideal medium. They are sterile, porous enough to hold water and yet will not hold too much. The seedlings make excellent roots but must be transplanted early unless fed with some nutrient solution. Where such cinders are available we suggest you try a sowing, especially if you have had difficulty in soil.

It is of prime importance to sterilize all soil into which you intend to sow seeds. Steam is probably best for this purpose but not always available and for best results steam sterilization should be done under pressure. An economical method is to use 40% liquid Formaldehyde. This material is low in cost, will keep its strength for years and is very effective in killing most disease organisms. For small quantities use one tablespoonful diluted with five or six tablespoons of water, thoroughly mixed with a flat of soil. Seed may be sown 12 to 24 hours after treatment if heavily watered. For larger quantities use about 2½ table-spoonsful of formaldehyde to the bushel. Three days should elapse if the soil or sand is to be used for transplants or cuttings.

Adequate drainage should be supplied in the flats or pans and usually this can best be obtained by using the coarse screenings on the bottom. It is good practice to prepare the flats and give them a good soaking. After they have dried so that the soil is not sticky, the seed may be sown. After sowing press lightly and sift over, with a fine screen, sufficient soil to just cover the seeds. Many failures are due to too heavy coverings. Very fine seeds such as Begonia, Kalanchoe and fine Petunia may require little or no covering other than a glass over the flat or pan.

Watering must be done very carefully with a fine rose and it is important that the soil should be uniformly moist at all times. Allowing the flat to dry out and giving light surface sprinkles will surely cause trouble. With very fine seeds, pans and flats are best watered by setting them in a container with an inch or so of water.

Shading may be done with newspaper, burlap or cheese cloth. Hard to germinate seeds such as Lavender, Trollius, Aquilegia, Primula are best kept very dark until they start to germinate.

Temperature has much to do with germination. Most perennials germinate best at low temperatures. Zinnias, Asparagus, Dracena, Verbena require high temperatures while Stocks, Snapdragons, Calceolaria need cool conditions. It is often necessary to sow cool loving plants during hot weather and here, by sprinkling the shading material frequently, a cool condition can be maintained.

Upon emergence, it is usually a good plan to sift a light covering of the finely screened sowing medium over the top. This may be done lightly and carefully several times until the seeds have all germinated and start to produce their first true leaf. This practice will help support the seedlings and prevent damping off. Ventilation and light must be admitted as rapidly as the weather conditions and the speed of germination permit. Err rather on ventilating too soon so that the seedlings may be kept short and stocky. Should damping off occur, a light dusting with Zinc Oxide or watering with a solution of Cuprocide 54, combined with proper ventilation and care in watering will usually stop the trouble.

Given a good start, seedlings will give little trouble when transplanted. Here again we recommend using sterilized soil when shifting to flats or small pots. Much time in transplanting can be saved by planting the hardier seeds directly where they are to bloom, especially in outdoor culture. Using a sandy soil mixture as a covering good results will be had in even heavy soil. Practically all annuals grown outdoors may be sown in this way, sowing somewhat thicker than usual and thinning if necessary. Many plants mature quicker and produce better flowers handled in this way. Flatting of perennial transplants may also be saved by sowing in open ground beds in early Spring or late Summer carrying the seedlings over and transplanting in a semi-dormant condition in Fall or early Spring.

We hope you have found something of value in the above article. It is impossible to cover the entire subject thoroughly in the space available so if you have a germination problem won't you ask us to help you solve it? We will be glad to do so.

Seed of Stock for forcing has always been more or less unpredictable with regard to the percentage of doubles it will produce. Selection of the strongest plants, growing in rich soil and proper feeding has been standard practice, but even under these conditions sometimes the percentage of doubles is too low for profit. To use all possible safeguards, our grower plants a quantity of each lot of seed and any lot that does not prove up to standard, is discarded.

Careful comparative tests have proved that our strains are equal to the best available and we feel convinced that we can satisfy the most critical.

FORCING BRANCHING TYPES

These varieties are really branching types but planted close they require very little pinching to produce spikes fully equal to the best column stock. Experience has shown that up until now they are the best of their color for forcing purposes.

Santa Maria. This grand white cannot be excelled for size, purity and percentage of doubles. The most profitable of all stocks.

SWEET PEAS

EARLY OR WINTER FLOWERING

Cuprocide treatment if desired

NEW INTRODUCTION

The following four varieties are introductions of Wm. MacDonald, one of the foremost producers of fine Sweet Peas. They have not been thoroughly tested in the greenhouse but any introduction by this producer is worthy of a trial.

1 Oz. ¼ Lb. 1 Lb.

Gardenia. The need for a better white is appreciated by every grower and perhaps this variety is the answer. It is a dense paper white of vigorous growth with strong stems and heavily duplexed flowers. It is white seeded but seems to lack the weakness of most white seeded varieties. $1.25 $4.00 $15.00

Tops. The originator states that this variety is head and shoulders above the field in color, vigor and flower production. Described as a salmon rose Tops will produce many stems with five and six flowers to the stem. 1.25 4.00 15.00

Sparks. Compared with Vulcan this is a much more vivid orange scarlet with larger flowers, more vigor and longer stems. The substance, color and other good qualities should make this the most popular in its color. 1.25 4.00 15.00

Rumba. A glistening golden cerise with large flowers and husky stems. 1.25 4.00 15.00

ROSES

We recommend planting dormant roses in the Fall and very early Spring. Experience has shown that results with dormant plants are very uncertain after April 1st, and for that reason we offer potted roses only in our Spring list. Prices on this type of material are naturally higher but results are so superior, there is no question of value because the element of loss and complaint is practically eliminated.

IMPORTANT

PATENTED PLANTS—All patented plants offered in this catalog are sold by us under License from the Patent owners, and it is understood and agreed to by the purchaser that they are for resale at retail only. The asexual reproduction of patented plants is reserved by the Patentees and is strictly prohibited under provisions of the Plant Patent Act.

Purchasers of Patented and nationally advertised plants shall not list or sell them at less than the established price for the current season, and not less than three of a kind at the dozen rate. Nor include them in any collection offers, except in connection with other patented roses. Neither shall they be featured in any manner or form as a premium. Failure to comply with this policy will result in discontinuance of the supply.

HARDY PERENNIALS & ROCK PLANTS

Interest in hardy perennials is constantly increasing. Garden magazines and Garden Clubs are spreading the knowledge of the choicer items. The reasonable price at which most plants are sold is also a big factor in creating a demand that means profit to you.

Many items are valuable cut flowers and they usually bloom at a time when greenhouse material is scarce. A planting of cut flower items will repay many times its original cost, with the natural increase available for resale.

PRICES: 1-3 of a variety at the each rate which is 5c added to the 100 rate. 4-24 plants at dozen rate. 25 or more at 100 rate.

SOMERSET'S COLUMN STOCK

Practically all of our seed of Column Stock is grown under glass by one of the leading specialists in the East. Outdoor grown seed will usually give better germination but the greenhouse grown seed gives an assurance of a higher percentage of doubles.

Careful comparative tests have proven that our strains are equal to the best available and we feel we can satisfy the most critical.

GARDENIA, This new white has shown up nicely in our trials this past winter. The percentage of doubles was high and the very large flowers nicely arranged on the long stems.
